

25 Questions All Married Couples Should Ask

In our busy lives as married couples, one of the most important areas not to neglect is our communication. The more we talk to each other, the more we will know about each other. This will help us respond to our spouse's needs, wants and desires. In your marriage, don't take your spouse for granted. Learn to ask important questions throughout every stage. Here are 25 questions to get you started:

1. How am I doing as a husband/wife in general?
2. What are you most excited about in our relationship during this season?
3. If you could see two things change about me what would they be?
4. What ways can I honor you more?
5. What are your biggest fears about our relationship?
6. As a husband/wife, how can I show more love/sensitivity to you?
7. Are you dealing with anything that I can help you with currently?
8. How can we improve our intimacy or take it to the next level?
9. What's your dream date night or weekend with me?
10. If you had three wishes to wish for our future, what would they be?
11. What are a few ways I need to be more understanding?
12. What are a few ways you desire to see our finances improve?
13. What are three places within 200 miles that you would like to spend a few days?
14. What strengths do I bring to our relationship?
15. What ways can I improve as a husband/wife?
16. What's your top three favorite love songs and why?
17. Do you feel more emotionally connected than we did early in our relationship?
18. What are two things we forgot to celebrate this year?
19. What were some things we used to do before we were married that you miss now?
20. What do I need to know most about you right now?
21. Is your love for me growing stronger?
22. What have you learned to appreciate about me that you did not know when we were first married?
23. Are you satisfied with the amount of time we spend together?
24. Do I tell you I love you enough?
25. What ways can we building our friendship more?